COUNSELLING SERVICES

Counseling at Kumaraguru College of Technology helps students address personal and emotional challenges that can hinder their academic and personal success. Counseling at KCT began in 2015. Students receive one-on-one guidance in a confidential setting.

Working with a counselor can help students gain clarity about their problems, gain insight into their origins, and develop strategies for moving forward. Counseling may not solve all problems, but it can equip students with new ways of thinking and help them to mobilize their resources and feel more in control. Reports are kept confidential, and student information is never disclosed to anyone at any time.

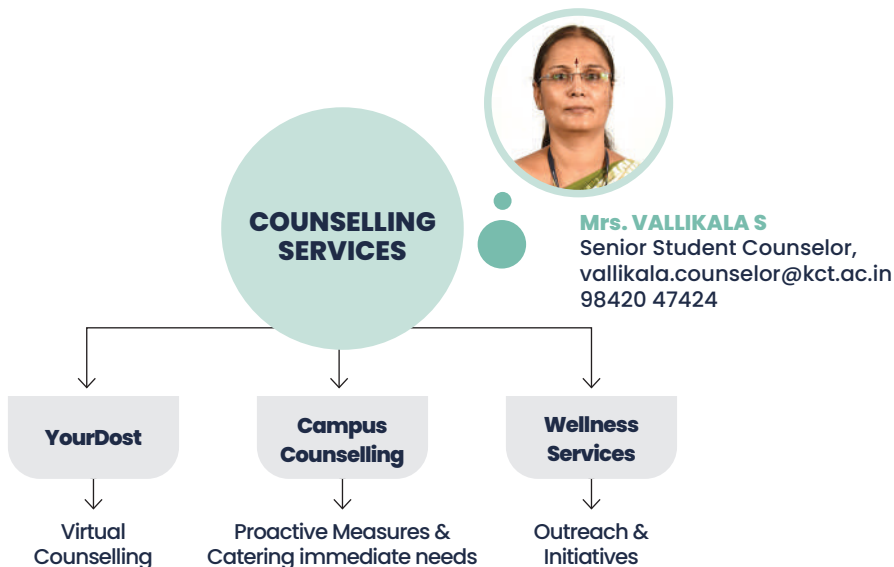

KCT counseling services provide supports under four broad categories:

ACADEMIC: To help students clear their backlogs, overcome exam anxiety and fear, maintain attendance, and address any issues that may lead them to discontinue their studies.

EMOTIONAL: To address issues related to family, personal, health, self-awareness, and gender related.

BEHAVIORAL: To address behavior patterns that limit emotional well-being, such as peer issues, communication styles, and value-based conflicts.

SELF-GROWTH: To help students understand their personality, preferred learning and working styles, enhance communication, and upskill soft skills.

The existing Counseling focuses more on proactive measures to ensure the wellbeing of all our stakeholders, particularly the students. The Student Counsellor on campus will be readily available to cater to any immediate needs.
